Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of total catch versus the number of hauls for various fish species. The x-axis is labeled 'Number of hauls' with values 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. The y-axis is labeled 'Percentage of total catch' with values 0, 10, 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, 90, 100. The legend indicates: 1. Blue line with circles (100% catch), 2. Blue line with squares (75% catch), 3. Blue line with triangles (50% catch), 4. Blue line with diamonds (25% catch), 5. Blue line with crosses (10% catch), 6. Blue line with asterisks (5% catch), 7. Blue line with dots (2% catch), 8. Blue line with pluses (1% catch), 9. Blue line with hash marks (0.5% catch), 10. Blue line with x's (0.2% catch). The graph shows that for most species, the percentage of total catch decreases as the number of hauls increases, following a power-law distribution.
